Vowel Pair Introduction - Long O Sound

Explain to the students: When two vowels go walking, the first one does the talking. The first vowel gets to say its name. The second vowel has to be quiet. Point to each vowel pair and have students say the sound.

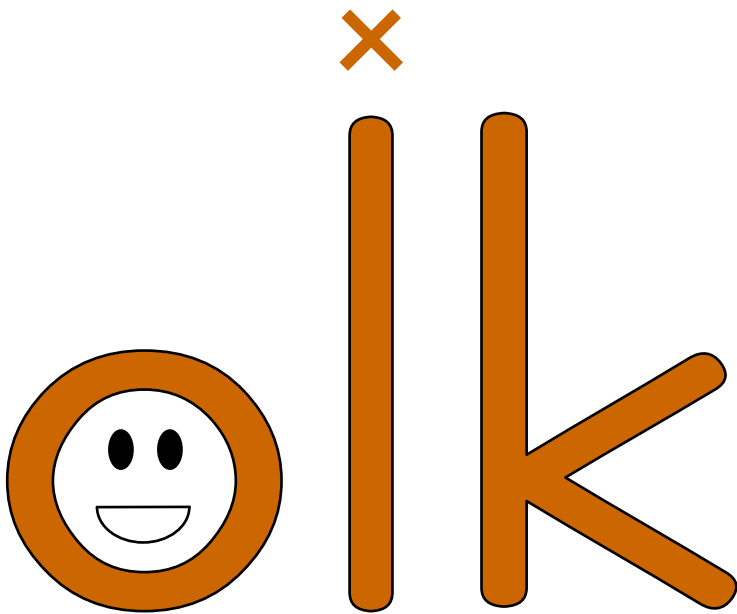

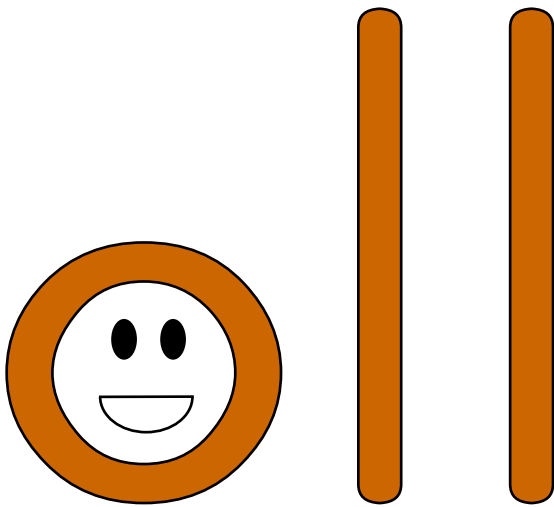

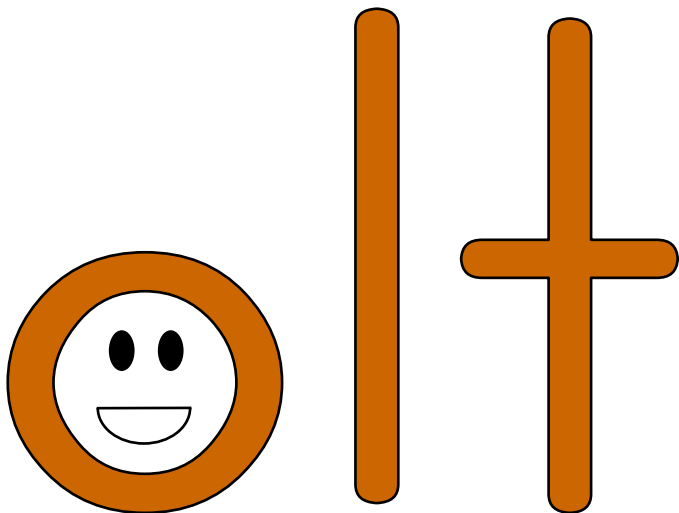

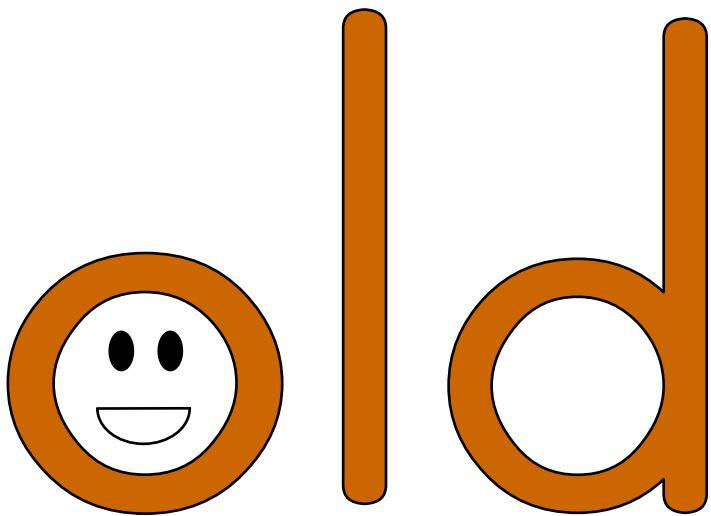

Split-Vowel Pair Introduction - Long O Sound

Explain to the students: Sometimes two vowels go walking, but a consonant squeezes between the vowels. It wants to go for a walk, too. Still, when two vowels go walking, the first one does the talking. The first vowel says its name, and the second vowel has to be quiet. Point to the split-vowel pair and have students say the sound. Explain that the line shows where the consonant will be. The consonant isn't shown because any consonant could be between the vowels.

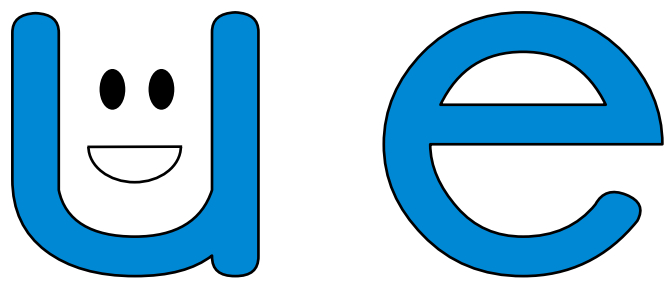

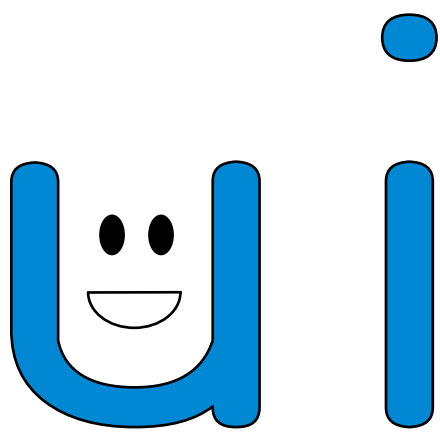

Follow The Leader Introduction - Long O Sound

Explain: These letters are playing "follow the leader." The vowel is the leader, and gets to say its name. The two consonants that follow say their regular sound. But watch out! Letters with an x above them are silent. Have students say the sound for each pattern.

Vowel Pair Introduction - Long U Sound

Explain to the students: When two vowels go walking, the first one does the talking. The first vowel gets to say its name. The second vowel has to be quiet. Point to each vowel pair and have students say the sound.

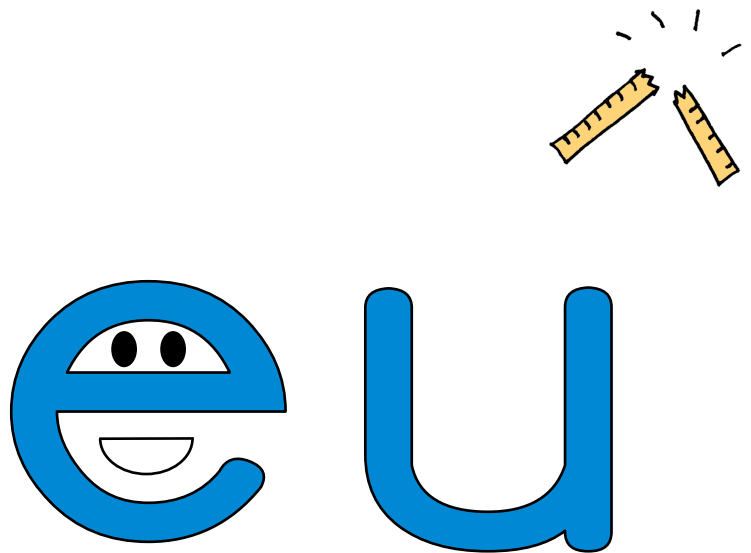

Split-Vowel Pair Introduction - Long U Sound

Explain to the students: Sometimes two vowels go walking, but a consonant squeezes between the vowels. It wants to go for a walk, too. Still, when two vowels go walking, the first one does the talking. The first vowel says its name, and the second vowel has to be quiet. Point to the split-vowel pair and have students say the sound. Explain that the line shows where the consonant will be. The consonant isn't shown because any consonant could be between the vowels.

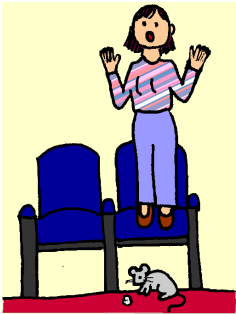

Long U Patterns That Are Rule-Breakers

The ew and eu patterns are a rule breakers. They are shown with a picture of a broken ruler to show that they can't be read in the usual way. The ew and eu patterns represent the long u sound. In the ew pattern, the letter u is not even part of the pattern. In the eu pattern, the letter u is second - it follows the e. These two patterns must be memorized.

Point to the vowels with the sound pictures on the top row of this page; have students say the sounds. If needed, model the sounds and have the students repeat.

Going down each column, have students say the sound and key word as you point to each pattern. At first, model the sounds and keywords and have the students repeat.

Continue to practice in the same way daily. As soon as possible students should say the sounds and key words on their own.

Before looking at this chart, go over the Long O and Long U Vowel Introduction Pages to introduce these new vowel patterns.

On this chart, point out that the top part of the chart shows vowel pairs, the middle part shows split-vowel pairs with a place for a consonant to squeeze in between the vowels, and the bottom part shows rule-breaker patterns that don't follow the rules.
