The Lady in the Moon
Who is the Lady in the Moon?

The sun sets. The moon rises. Come out. Come out to play.

It is Moon Festival, a night for children everywhere.

Let's sing a song to the Lady in the Moon.

Let's write a poem to send to Lady Moon.

We'll make some treats, good things to eat.

We'll wrap them in lotus leaves, tied with golden knots.

Moon cakes, golden pears, melons, and plums.

We'll make eight treasures rice, wrapped in lotus leaves.

Night is falling, and children call,

"Come out, Lady Moon. come light up the sky."

High above the city, high above the hills,

the moon shows her golden face. Children sing and laugh.

They send their poems to the Lady in the Moon.

She glows, she glides, she grows.

Lady Moon fills the sky with light.

Let's laugh and song a song to Lady Moon.

Let's read our poems to Lady Moon.
We’ll make her some treats, good things to eat.
We’ll wrap them in lotus leaves, tied with golden knots.
Moon cakes, golden pears, melons, plums, and eight treasures rice.
Raise your lanterns high.
It is Moon Festival, a night for children everywhere.
The moon is so near, you can touch it if you try.
We light our lanterns. We raise them high.
Moon beams and lanterns touch. Oh, what a show!
A bridge of light glows in the fall night.
Where does it go? Will it take us to the moon?
Let’s laugh and sing a song to Lady Moon.
Let’s read our poems to the Lady in the Moon.
We’ll take her some treats, good things to eat.
We’ll wrap them in lotus leaves, tied with golden knots.
Moon cakes, golden pears, melons, plums, and eight treasures rice.

High-Frequency Words - above eight laugh
                         moon touch

Selection Words - festival treasures lotus leaves poem pears